What would your advice be to current students?

Follow your passions, and find your niche. Start thinking about what your ideal job is, then work it back and build a personal career plan to get you there. For me, I always cared about the entertainment industry (most especially the video game business), so I thought about my job path as a 'spiral staircase' rather than a ladder, built up of diagonal steps that let me build experience in unique areas. Lastly: things take time. Be patient, and never stop developing yourself. It's all possible.
