Regional Economic Outlook

The ICAEW UK Economic Outlook Report by Oxford Economics has been published. The hyperlink does not work but if you copy and paste this link it will.
<https://www.icaew.com/-/media/corporate/files/technical/economy/economic-insight/uk-economic-forecast/uk-economic-outlook-regional-scorecards-september.ashx>

The South West key points are:

- Output and employment are likely to fall by slightly more than the UK average in 2020 in the South West and the 2021 recovery may be a little weaker. Over the full period 2020-25 the South West will probably slightly underperform the UK.
- Despite a strong rebound, employment in 2021 is still forecast to be slightly lower than it was in 2019, at 2.96m compared with 3.04m.

- The region has the lowest population density in the UK which may help during the crisis. However, it also has an older population and high reliance on both tourism and self-employment.

The South East key points are:

- GVA and employment are falling massively in 2020, although by slightly less than the UK as a whole in the South East. 2021 should see a strong rebound, and over the period 2020-25 the region will follow the national average.
- During 2021 the job market will probably recover, but not fully. Employment in 2021 is forecast to be 4.90m, compared with 4.97m in 2019.
- The region has a very similar sectoral structure to the UK, but has some advantages including better than average internet connectivity and more people who are able to work from home.
